

HONORS DOMESTIC EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING SCHOLARSHIP

Summer 2022 Application

The Morehead Honors College is offering stipends ranging from $1,000 to $3,500 to help cover the costs of focused experiential learning opportunities occurring within the U.S. during the summer of 2022. Eligible experiential learning opportunities include internships, field study programs, research, and creative projects wherein students' costs go above the normal cost of attendance and are not otherwise covered by other funding sources (such as UGA's CURO Research Assistantship and Experiential Learning Scholarship).

To be eligible, you must be an Honors student in good academic standing who, as of summer 2022, will be a rising second, third, or fourth year. Applicants must provide a letter of support from someone supervising your experiential learning experience (e.g. the supervisor of internship, professor serving as research mentor) or proof that you're in an experiential learning program (e.g. letter of acceptance into a field study program). Awards are merit-based, taking into account the student's academic record, quality of the essay & resume, and the case made for the experience. The award amount will depend upon the cost and length of the experience.

There will be two application deadlines for summer 2022 funding – Wednesday, April 20 and Wednesday, May 4 (both by 11:59pm). Those applying by the first deadline will be at an advantage but some funding will be reserved for students who don't have their experiences confirmed until the second deadline. Decisions will go out within about two weeks of the deadline. Please direct questions to Maria de Rocher, Assistant Dean and Director of Student Programming & Engagement, at 706-542-6908, derocher@uga.edu.
