

Honors International Scholars Program

Application for Travel in 2017

The Honors International Scholars Program (HISP) supports second- and third-year Honors students engaging in overseas opportunities by providing 45-60 scholarships per year, ranging from $2500 to $5000. Students have used HISP funding to participate in traditional university-sponsored study abroad programs, university-to-university exchanges, language institutes, internships, and research and public service projects. HISP awards are merit-based, taking into account GPA (minimum 3.5), quality of essays, and fit of the program to the student's academic and professional goals. The amount of each award depends upon program costs, financial need, and funds available.

The majority of awards are earmarked for travel to Asia, South and Central America, and Africa. A limited number of awards can be granted for travel elsewhere—usually to students traveling abroad for the first time, demonstrating significant financial need, and/or with particularly compelling reasons to complete the proposed program. Travel to countries with State Department warnings cannot be funded through HISP. To check current State Department travel warnings go to <https://travel.state.gov/content/passports/en/alertswarnings.html>.
